SOUTH FRANKFORT.

Proceedings of the Board of Trustees.

Part of Second Street Sold, Side Walks Built and Another Well Dug.

It will be seen from this chapter that each trustee generally looked after his immediate neighborhood and that most of the improvements made were generally where some member of the board would be fence, on the right hand side of most benefited by the same, the street leading from said turnpike into the pike to E. S. Coleman's. Which board and list of officers, while the old veteran, Larkin Samuel, seems to have lost interest in town affairs and is also lost sight of so far as the minutes show.

March 2, 1833—Benjamin Hensley, C. S. Morehead, J. J. Vest, S. Q. Richardson and George W. Graham were elected trustees. J. J. Vest was elected chairman, C. G. Graham clerk and E. S. Cole- man assessor.

June 22—Daniel Epperson was elected a trustee to fill the vacancy occasioned by the removal of J. J. Vest from the town. $100 appropriated to Hawkins Wicker- sham for work done over the ravine between Mrs. Humphreys' and John H. Hanna's, to be paid in installments of $25, with 6 per cent. interest.

August 15—Ten dollars appropriated to repair and improve Todd street, the work to be done under the superintendence of E. S. Coleman. The rate of taxation was fixed at 12½ cents on the hundred, with 50 cents as the poll tax. C. G. Graham resigned as clerk. Geo. W. Graham elected chairman to fill the place of Mr. Vest and Geo. W. Gwin elected clerk. The chairman directed to call on the treasurer for a statement of the situation of his accounts and the situation and amount of the funds.

October 21—Thos. J. Mayhall appointed collector. Geo. W. Gwin appointed to contract for the flagging of the sidewalk along the turnpike from the south end of the present flagging at J. Neal's house to the turnpike road.

February 27, 1834—Jas. Brown allowed an account of $3.13 for services as a blacksmith and Jas. L. Duke allowed the sum of three shillings for work done on pump iron.

March 3—John Gayle, C. S. Morehead, E. S. Coleman, L. Batchelor and George W. Graham elected trustees. L. Batchelor elected chairman pro tem and Geo. W. Gwin clerk.

March 11—Account of Gervis E. Russell for advertising sale of lots in South Frankfort, amounting to $2.50, allowed. John Gayle appointed to contract for and superintend the repairing of the wooden abutment at the corner of John H. Hanna's yard fence on the right hand side of the road leading from the bridge to the old turnpike to east end of the mouth of Benson, and that the said Gayle contract for and superintend the repairing of the road and also the bridge upon said road.

E. S. Coleman and Geo. W. Gwin appointed to contract for and superintend the opening of the old ditch leading from the turnpike to the corner of L. Batchelor's fence, report. E. S. Coleman, G. W. Hanna's lot to the corner thereof, and that said contract be carried into effect, forthwith.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

signed as trustee and John Vaughan elected to fill the vacancy.

March 12, 1836—Chas. S. Morehead, John S. Robson, Geo. W. Graham, Edward S. Coleman and Daniel Epperson elected trustees. Chas. S. Morehead elected chairman, Geo. W. Gwin clerk, treasurer and assessor, Lydall Bacon, sr., collector. Chas. S. Morehead as chairman, authorized in behalf of the town to subscribe for five shares of stock in the new bridge proposed to be erected across the river at B. Hensley's ferry, provided the company of said bridge will make a permanent road from the south end of said bridge to intersect the new turnpike road proposed to be made in the direction of the old road running through South Frankfort.

September 20—Daniel Epperson having removed to North Side, William S. Pemberton was elected a trustee to fill the vacancy. Micajah Goins had an account allowed for repairing pump near Benjamin Hensley's. James Weston allowed $9.00 for filling up well near J. H. Hanna's gate. That part of Second street beginning at the new turnpike road and running back westwardly to the town limits sold to Mrs. Mary Humphreys for $50.

Having made the sale the board seems to have taken a rest, as the date of the next meeting is May 9th, 1835, when C. S. Morehead, John S. Robson, John Campbell and T. J. Mayhall appear as trustees. John S. Robson was made chairman, G. W. Gwin clerk, and Geo. W. Graham treasurer. Wm. M. Todd was elected trustee in place of E. S. Coleman, who declined to act. James L. Duke was allowed an account of $2.25 for fixing pump iron. An account of the Kentucky Penitentiary for $3 for repairing pump handle on the 25th of August, 1832, nearly three years before, was allowed. C. S. Morehead allowed $9.50 for so much cash paid by him to George Johnson for repairing sidewalk or foot pavement leading from the bend of the turnpike near Benjamin Hensley's to S. Neal's corner near the bridge. The salary of the clerk was fixed at two dollars for each meeting of the board. C. S. Morehead, Wm. M. Todd and Geo. W. Gwin appointed to settle with Benjamin Hensley on behalf of the board, but for what the settlement was to be made the book fails to show. Geo. W. Gwin and Thos. J. Mayhall appointed a committee to contract for removing the old pavement running through John H. Hanna's lot and for laying a new pavement from the north generally through the town and along the east side of John H. Hanna's lot to the corner thereof, and that said contract be carried into effect, forthwith.

December 18—Geo. W. Gwin resigned as treasurer and was elected a trustee in place of Wm. M. Todd, who failed to accept the position. Thos. J. Mayhall re-divides the late residence of Mrs. Elizabeth Mitchell from the present turnpike road and make report. O. G. Cates, Dan'l Epperson and John Campbell appointed commissioners to view the streets and alleys and ascertain and report what streets and alleys belonging to the town have been improperly, or without the consent of the board, closed up, that the proper steps may be forthwith taken to remove the obstructions. A committee also appointed to, with the county surveyor, and survey the town for the purpose of ascertaining the exact location of the streets and alleys, as well as the location of the lots according to their numbers, and plant stones at the four corners of the squares so that purchasers and owners may be enabled to ascertain the exact location and boundary of any and every lot laid down on the plat of the town. O. G. Cates and Chas. S. Morehead appointed to draw up a code of by-laws for the regulation of the town. The clerk ordered to renew and draw off the map of the town, including the Kentucky river as it stands upon the old map, North Frankfort, as it stands upon said map, to be omitted. Philip Swigert ordered to open a part of Main street, which he had fenced up.

June 16—John Campbell employed to build a good substantial fence around and enclose the spring known as Mrs. Mitchell's spring, to prevent the abuse of said spring by stock or otherwise. Lydall Bacon, sr., appointed marshal of the town and invested with power to enforce the laws and ordinances of the town. The tax rate was again fixed at 10 cents on the hundred dollars. L. Bacon gave bond as collector, with R. D. Owen as surety.

December 19—O. G. Cates authorized to institute proceedings and defend suits for the protection of streets, alleys, and public highways and foot pavements, and especially to remove or restrain any obstruction to the foot pavement on Second, Conway and Ewing streets, and the alley running parallel with Ewing street, on the cast side, or any other street or alley within the town limits, and he is authorized to use any legal means to protect any public property within the limits of the town of South Frankfort.

January 26, 1838—Account of E. S. Coleman for work done on streets, and for services as assessor, amounting to $34, allowed. Also account of Brown & Hodges for advertising, amounting to $2 allowed. Daniel Epperson and John Campbell appointed a committee to have pond near residence of O. G. Cates and also pond standing in front of property lately owned by Mildred Tuntstall, drained.

C. G. Graham was a son of Geo. W. Graham and the father of Mr. C. Gran. Graham, of the Adams Express office. For many years he kept a livery stable which stood where the stable of W. B. Luckett now is on Ann street. Gervis E. Russell was in the printing business here for a long time and was the father of Mr. W. F. Russell and grandfather of Judge W. H.

Sneed and Mr. John W. Rodman. John Campbell was the father of Mrs. Margaret Campbell and Mrs. J. H. Williamson. At the time of his death he was keeping the St. Clair street bridge. Wm. M. Todd was a brother of Mrs. Mary J. Lewis and an uncle of Mr. R. K. McClure. For many years he was in business where Mr. R. K. McClure now is. He was a leading member of the First Presbyterian Church and Superintendent of the Sunday school. He removed to Woodford county to live, where he died in 1865 and is buried here in the cemetery. Philip Swigert was the grandfather of Mr. J. Buford Hendrick and was for many Circuit Clerk, afterwards president of the Farmers Bank, and organized the Deposit Bank of which he was president when he died in 1871.

Littlebury Batchelor was the father of Mr. Jas. W. Batchelor, who for a number of years was a clerk in the Farmers Bank and City Clerk, and grandfather of Mrs. Snively, of this city. Wm. S. Pemberton was a farmer who lived in the Pea Ridge neighborhood, and at one time had a difficulty with a man by the name of Baker at the "Twin Taverns," near Bridgeport, in which Baker was killed. Jas. L. Duke was a blacksmith and the father of (Concluded on third page.)

GET INTO THE BAND WAGON!

The above is a common every-day American expression. I have bought an immense lot of GOLD and GOLD-FILLED CASES at panicky prices, and I want the public to share the benefits of the deal. The cut only holds good for THIRTY DAYS.

FRANKFORT ROUNDABOUT

Entered at the post-office at Frankfort, Kentucky, as a second-class mailable matter.

GEO. A. LEWIS, Editor and Pub.

FRANKFORT, FEBRUARY 9, 1895.

THE LADIES WILL BE IN CHARGE.

The Next Issue of the Roundabout To Be Edited by Them.

Next week we expect to turn the ROUNDABOUT over to the ladies of the city, a committee of whom will have entire charge of the issue of February 16th, filling it with such matter as may suit their fancy, and we expect the paper to contain a wonderful amount of good suggestions and bright editorials. In fact it will be by far the best issue of the ROUNDABOUT ever gotten out.

Knew What was Coming.

It did not take more than one glance at his shadow Saturday to convince the ground hog that he had no business on the outside, and he immediately scampered back into his hole. The wonder is that he even left the hole on the outside. If the past week is a sample of the weather he predicted we are to have for the next five weeks the coal merchants will reap a rich harvest—if they succeed in collecting for all the coal they sell—and there are lots of people who would like to follow the example of the ground hog and go into a hole also.

Fire at Versailles.

A fire occurred at Versailles early Sunday morning which destroyed one of the best and handsomest business blocks in the place. We are sorry to see that our neighbors of the Woodford Sun were among the sufferers by the fire and hope they will soon be all right in a good running order again. Like prudent business men, they carried insurance enough to prevent their loss being very great.

Filled the Vacancies.

The Republican County Committee met at the Capital Hotel on Monday and filled vacancies already existing in the committee and elected new members from the precincts recently created. Mr. D. B. Walcott was elected Secretary of the committee in place of Mr. Chas. J. Weitzel, resigned.

Broke His Leg.

Mr. Alex. Szymanski was so unfortunate as to slip and fall upon the ice in the yard of his residence on Broadway Monday evening breaking the bone of the left leg, in which he has been crippled for many years. He has since suffered great pain from the injury and grave doubts are entertained of his recovery.

Eggs for hatching from choice Buried Plymouth Rocks $1 for setting of 13. S. T. FORTUNE, 23-3m.

A Long Life Ended.

Mrs. Mahala McDowell died Sunday night, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Lutheran Buckley, on Holmes street, and her funeral took place Tuesday afternoon. The deceased had reached the extreme age of 94 years and had enjoyed almost perfect health until a month or so ago, when she tripped and fell while walking across the floor, breaking her hip. The physicians thought best not to reduce the fracture as, owing to her extreme age, the bones would not knit, and the most that could be done for the old lady was to render her as comfortable as possible. She began to sink in a few days after and continued to grow weaker until the spark of life, which was born with the century, went out forever. She became a member of the Christian Church long years ago and continued a consistent member to the last. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. George Darsie, her pastor, at the home of her daughter and a large number of friends gathered to pay the last tribute of respect to her memory. She lived not only to see her grandchildren and great grandchildren, but one great great grandchild as well.

Anti-Toxine The Coming Remedy.

Anti-toxine, the new remedy for diphtheria, has been used with several cases in this city recently and has acted like a charm, giving almost instant relief to the patients.

Ten days loss of time on account of sickness and a doctor's bill to pay, is anything but pleasant for a man and his family to contemplate, whether he is a laborer, mechanic, merchant or publisher. Jas. O. Jones, publisher of the Leader, Mexia, Texas, was sick but for a few days and the grip disease, its prevalence a year or two ago. Later in the season he had a second attack. He says: "In the latter case I used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy with considerable success, I think only being in bed a little over two days." The second attack, he said, he would have been equally as bad as the first but for the use of this remedy. It should be borne in mind that the grip is much the same as a very severe cold and requires precisely the same treatment. When you have a cold, you should not effectually give this remedy a trial, 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by PHIL. CARPENTER, South Side druggist.

A Great Offer.

The Louisville Daily Post, published every evening except Sunday is offered with the ROUNDABOUT at $3 per year. The price of The Post alone is $5 per year and our paper $1.00, making this the best offer of the kind ever made.

Subscribers to the ROUNDABOUT who are not taking The Post now can avail themselves of this opportunity by addressing this office or writing to B. G. Boyle, 526 Third street, Louisville.

O. W. O. Hardman, Sheriff of Tyler County, is a good man and does not hesitate to say he was almost prostrated with a cold when he procured a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. He says: "It gave me prompt relief. I find it to be an invaluable remedy for coughs and colds." For sale by PHIL. CARPENTER, South Side druggist.

Cheap Rates South.

On February 5th the Kentucky Midland will sell tickets to a great many points in the south at one price for the round trip. Account Land Seekers' Excursions.

Pursuit of Cayuse—Sudden Attack—Retreat of Gillem's Force—Desperate Fighting—Indian's Defeated
—Fort Whitman Reached.

BY S. R. S.

CHAPTER III.

After the treaty with the Nez Perces and Walla Wallas, 150 picked men were started in pursuit of the retreating Cayuse—Gillem at their head. The scout soon reported the discovery of a lot of wigwams on Polous creek. A night attack was planned, the force divided, and a quick descent in two opposite directions made on the supposed camp. Only a lot of willow brush was found, the scout's imagination supplying the rest. Camp was made on the spot. Early next morning smoke was seen near the mouth of the creek where it emptied into Snake river. Gillem formed his men in line across the valley, and marched in the direction of the smoke. Shortly several Indians were discovered, riding at full speed towards the whites and bearing a white flag. On coming up, they claimed to be friendly Pelous Indians and stated there were no Cayuse Indians in the vicinity. No attention was paid to their representations and the march was continued. Shortly an Indian camp came into sight, containing only women and children. On the hills adjacent about 100 head of horses and fat cattle were seen. Following a well-beaten path that led up a hill near the creek's mouth, from the summit of the hill could be seen Indians in canoes following large numbers of cattle that were swimming across the river into what is now the State of Washington. One of Gillem's party, without orders, fired a shot that killed one of the Indians in a canoe and came near being court-martialed by Gillem for the act.

The cattle near the Indian camp were ordered to be driven across the creek and ahead of the command by men detailed for the purpose, a different route being taken than the one by which the camp was approached. As the force neared the creek, a man named Thompson suggested to Frazer that they get several of the men and capture as spoils a lot of horses visible on the hills a short distance away. This was agreed to, and beckoning to several that were near, the proposition was explained and they started to drive in the horses while Frazer and Thompson held the ford. The horses were just being started, when two Indians on horseback rode at lightning speed in between the whites and the horses and drove the latter off at a thundering gait. At the same time a number of Indians were noticed approaching through the underbrush near the creek, and being warned by Frazer and Thompson, the men rode for the ford with all speed. The Indians increased rapidly in number until the "woods seemed full of them," and pursued in hot haste. It was a race of life and death. Had not Gillem discovered what was going on and sent a party to their assistance, it is probable the spoils-seeking men would have been massacred. From that time the path of the retreating column under Gillem was beset by enemies on every hand, the Indians seeming to spring up out of every bush. From brush, hillside and ravine they poured a fire on the escaping column—clearly outnumbering the later three to one. Gillem's retreat was admirably conducted, the force being so managed that the return fire was kept up by platoons in succession, the men becoming habituated to the enemy's presence and discipline rendered easier of observance. Here and there a man would drop from the ranks, wounded by the hostile bullets, and improvised litters, in the hands of comrades, bore them forward. The loss to the savages was severe, but unknown, as they quickly bore away the wounded and dead. After four miles of this constant warfare, a halt was ordered and camp made. The firing did not cease. The cattle were herded in the center of the camp.

Deeming his situation critical, Gillem ordered the cattle to be driven outside the lines and turned loose. This was after dark. As the cattle went out the savages rushed forward and quickly drove them away. This ended the fight for the night. Later, they held a war dance about 200 yards away, beating their war drums, dancing and yelling. Then they gathered on the adjacent hills and called to Gillem's force that they were women and wouldn't fight, and declared that they were going to kill the whites the next day as they crossed the Toosha creek.

For 24 hours Gillem's force had had nothing to eat, and in the condition of demoralized excitement not one of the captured cattle had been killed or kept for food. Imminent destruction seemed to hover over them that destruction was lost. One old mountaineer had a piece of tallow gun. Half of this he divided with Frazer and never was morsel so sweet.

During the night a council of war was held, and upon the advice of an interpreter named Mungo—a half-breed from Fort Walla Walla—it was decided to take a new route known to him and cross the Toosha at a ford higher up than the one on the road they were following. Camp was broken an hour before day and that much start was gained. About 8 o'clock the Indians were seen in pursuit. Forming his men in a hollow square Gillem addressed them. He said their situation was desperate, and only by every man doing his full duty could there be hope of escape. He declared that no Indian ever stood in charge, and, taking them at their own game, his men must charge down on the Indian lines, reserving their fire until close at hand, and he predicted the Indian lines would break and scatter. Then they must gain the brush first—if so, they were safe. Otherwise it was all over with them. Carefully forming his column of attack, at the word of command, Gillem's force rushed like a hurricane upon the enemy, wildly shouting and yelling. The Indians bravely held their ground till the fire of the whites was delivered at close quarters, then they broke and fled. Gillem's force entered the bush first.

So enraged were the Indians when they discovered the advantage gained by their opponent, that in desperation they rushed recklessly to within a few paces and delivered their fire. Numbers of them were killed. Frazer states that near him lay a fine rifle shot named Rhinerson, who killed at least a dozen. As fast as the Indians were killed, or desperately wounded, they were lassoed by their comrades and dragged away to prevent their being scalped.

Gillem's force had possession of the bank above the creek ford and Phil Thompson and a man named Alderney were moving toward the ford, the others following. Seeing several Indians concealed in the grass near the creek, Thompson shot one. Alderney inadvertently ran up to scalp him, supposing him dead. The wounded Indian suddenly rose up and shot Alderney, making a fatal wound from which he died in a few days.

For an hour the battle raged fiercely, until the cries and appeals of the squaws were heard, calling upon the warriors to cease fighting lest the "Bostons" (the whites) would kill them all. The Indians then drew away and stood upon a hill in full view. Gillem's of their ramrods the scalps they had taken—calling on the Indians to come on and fight—that they were cowards and dogs.

The retreat was then resumed, without further pursuit, and camp made that night one and one-half miles beyond the Toosha. Here the fierce hunger of the men was appeased by the flesh of an Indian stud colt that had followed the command—the meat being broiled on green willow sticks. Messengers were dispatched to Fort Whitman, fifteen miles distant, with a request to send a force to carry in the dead and wounded. This force was met next day. The dead and wounded were being borne on litters, rudely constructed. Fort Whitman was a haven of rest as well as a place of sorrow—funeral services being held and the dead reverently interred.

TO BE CONTINUED.

J. W. Fairbanks,

Postmaster at Mankato, Neb., writes us as follows: "A chapter of your Dr. Hale's Household Tea and it is the first medicine I have found that has done me any good. For 30 years I have been troubled with liver and kidney diseases, growing worse every year. For this 10 years I have not been able to do much or any work. I feel dull, sleepy and as though I could not stir. My bowels would not move often than once a week. After taking one package I am much better and now feel like a young man again. My good appetite and bowels regular. For dyspepsia, constipation, all liver and kidney troubles, etc., etc., it has no equal. Only 25¢ and 50¢, a package to P. H. CARPENTER's drug store."

Ben Edrington's Book.

Seeing the name of Benjamin Edrington appear frequently in the proceedings of the Board of Trustees of the town of South Frankfort, which we have been republishing for several weeks, Capt. Jacob Swigert has presented us with an old book, which he found among the books of his father, the late Jacob Swigert, who was for many years Clerk of the Court of Appeals. It is entitled "A Constable's Guide," and across the top of the title page is written "Benjamin Edrington's Book." The book was compiled by Charles Humphreys and was printed by Thomas Skillman at Lexington in 1813, and the paper upon which it was printed was handmade, and is now yellow with age. On the fly leaf is written "I will Not Lend this Book to no one. Price $1.25. So buy and read at your leisure." And just below is the following:

Behold ye stranger passing by!
As you are now so once was I.
As I am now so you must be;
Prepare for defeat and follow me.

Adieu false heart.

Since we must part.

The joys of the world go with you.

I'll come no more unto your door
To tell you how I — you."

At the bottom of the page is the name, written in a different hand, "L. Batchelor."

From the above we suppose Mr. Edrington was at one time a Constable in this city and was left at the next election.

"A Flag of Truce."

Although the military title would suggest a war drama, "A Flag of Truce," which will be produced at the Opera House February 12th, cannot be classed as such, as the scenes are laid near Providence, R. I., between the years of 1863-5, and the stirring events of the civil war are but remotely alluded to. The company is the same as was seen in the New York production, one of even excellence, while the stage settings and accessories are most elaborate and complete.

Academy of Music—Uncle Tom.

Edward F. Davis's Spectacular Company opened a week's engagement at the Academy of Music last night, producing that old but ever popular play, "Uncle Tom's Cabin." The company is a large one, and in many respects a strong one. Excepting in the case of a few of the leading characters all the parts in the cast are taken by colored folks. The specialty, or more properly speaking, perhaps, the variety features of the show are very good. This is particularly true of the singing of Miss Mabel Hyer and the Magnolia quartette, and of the dancing of the Grundy Bros., all colored, and the singing and dancing of little Helen McCabe and La Petite McCabe, aged respectively, about 8 and 5. The company of Jubilee singers, about 25 in number, is a very excellent one, Walter Espy plays the character of Uncle Tom exceedingly well, while little Helen McCabe, as Eva, acts her part very effectively—Public Ledger, Dec. 25, 1894.

At the Opera House Wednesday, February 13.

In Memoriam.

Mr. Joe B. Towner, once Jenkins, died at the home of his husband, Mr. F. C. Towner, at Bridport, Ky., on Friday evening, December 1st, 1893. For some time past he had been in a very feeble condition. The best medical skill proved of no avail so far as arrest of his disease. He had, until a few days ago, and devoted watching and affection to his wife, who had been his constant nurse, to mitigate as much as possible the effects of his disease, but still she must have been greatly fatigued. He died at Bridport Christian Church about 17 years ago. From that time till her death he was very ill, and was unable to do any work, but she did not give up hope, and did not lose her peculiar virtue of rock-on. To her two little children she was a constant comfort, and almost to the very hour would have been the most beloved of mothers. The wife of Mr. Jenkins, the widow of her first, the removal of whom from her life was a blow to her womanhood, when she seemed to be so much needed to慰慰 another's tender, wounded heart, was a constant comfort to her son, Joe, and Richard, four. — An unobserved mystery. The son, Richard, is a bright boy, and his thoughts and ways are higher than ordinary. — A son and daughter, the wife of Mr. Jenkins, with her mind unbroken, taking care of her son, but of her husband and two little ones, who are now in heaven, the effects of her heart were so great that she died.

—Sleep in death, blessed sleep,
From which none ever wake to weep;
A calm a quiet slumbering repose,
Unto the rest of them.
